Records indicate that there may have been a dam at this site as early as 1916, but it is unclear when it was removed, as no dam is visible on the 1939 aerial photographs (oldest aerials available for this area). The current dam was built between 1967 and 1969, reportedly under considerable protest by local residents.